Congressional Record

PROCEEDINGS AND DEBATES OF THE 82^d CONGRESS, FIRST SESSION

SENATE

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 3, 1951

The 3d day of January being the day prescribed by the Constitution of the United States for the annual meeting of Congress, the first session of the Eighty-second Congress commenced this day.

The Senate assembled in its Chamber at the Capitol.

ALBEN W. BARKLEY, of Kentucky, Vice President of the United States, called the Senate to order at 12 o'clock meridian.

The Chaplain, Rev. Frederick Brown Harris, D. D., of the city of Washington, offered the following prayer:

Our Father God, whose approval we seek above the hollow applause of men, with the unwritten record of a new session open before us we would make the first entry "In the beginning God," as with contrite hearts we offer the prayer that all the deliberations of this historic Chamber may be begun, continued and ended in Thee. In a world where the very foundations seem to be shaken and the mad fury of battle this very day assails our senses and tears our hearts, we cherish this hushed and hallowed moment which so long ago the founding fathers set apart as an altar of prayer at the day's beginning.

Grant that those who by the people's choice have been called to high places of state in this fateful day, conscious of the great tradition in which they stand, assuming responsibilities as heavy as the servants of the Commonwealth have ever borne, may be filled with Thy spirit, the spirit of wisdom and understanding, the spirit of knowledge and the fear of Thee. On this significant day of beginnings like the sound of a great amen may there ascend from every Member of this legislative body, upon which are the eyes of the world, the solemn prayer: "So help me, God!" We ask it in the dear Redeemer's name. Amen.

ADMINISTRATION OF OATH

The VICE PRESIDENT. The first order of business is the administration of the oath of office to the newly elected Senators. Their names will be called in alphabetical order in groups of four and as their names are called they will proceed to the rostrum where the oath will be administered.

The legislative clerk (Edward E. Mansur, Jr.) called the names of Mr. AIKEN, Mr. BENNETT, Mr. BUTLER of Maryland, and Mr. CAPEHART.

Mr. MCFARLAND. Mr. President, I ask unanimous consent that when the oath required by the Constitution and prescribed by law is administered to Mr. JOHN MARSHALL BUTLER as a Senator from the State of Maryland for the term beginning January 3, 1951, such action shall be deemed to be without prejudice either to him or to the constitutional right or power of the Senate to take any action it may subsequently deem proper, pending the outcome of the investigation now being made by the Committee on Rules and Administration through a subcommittee into the 1950 election in said State.

The VICE PRESIDENT. Is there objection to the request of the Senator from Arizona? The Chair hears none, and it is so ordered.

The Senators whose names have been called will come forward and take the oath of office.

RESUMPTION OF SENATE SESSIONS IN SENATE CHAMBER

The VICE PRESIDENT. The Chair thinks this is not an inappropriate time to invite the attention of Senators and their guests to what the Chair regards as an important historic event, namely, the return of the Senate to this Chamber.

Ninety-two years ago this month the United States Senate moved from the Chamber which it had previously occupied into this new wing of the Capitol, and the House of Representatives moved from what is now Statuary Hall into its new Chamber.

Twice within the life of the Eighty-first Congress the Senate, because of repairs which were being made to this Chamber, has had to move out of this Chamber into its old Chamber, which for many years had been occupied by the Supreme Court.

The Chair would like to congratulate the Architect of the Capitol and all his associates, as well as the committees of the Senate and of the House for the magnificent work they have done in the remodeling of this Chamber of the United States Senate.

Here also in connection with the old Chamber were hammered out the patterns of our institutions, our liberties, and our constitutional rights. Here many historic debates took place from 1859 until the present time. Debates in this Chamber and in the corresponding Chamber at the other end of the Capitol made American history.

It seems to me that now when we return to this Chamber, which has been occupied for nearly a century by the Senate of the United States, we can very well be imbued with a new spirit typified and symbolized by the new appearance and the new conveniences not only on the floor, but in the galleries for the benefit of our friends and guests.

The Chair may be pardoned, he hopes, if he expresses the conviction and the belief that from this new atmosphere here we may take new courage and a new spirit of cooperation, and the determination that, without regard to differences which must exist among strong men with deep convictions, which differences must be expressed here if we are to maintain the freedom of debate, we may conduct ourselves as should the greatest legislative body in the world, the last forum of free debate and free consideration among legislative bodies; that in this critical time in our history and in the history of the world, we may here highly resolve, in the language of Lincoln at Gettysburg, that liberty shall not perish from the earth, that we shall continue to be a nation "of the people, by the people, for the people," and that through our cooperation and our unselfish services here in behalf of our people we may set for all the world an example which may bring peace and happiness and contentment to all mankind. [Applause.]

Mr. SALTONSTALL. I announce that the Senator from Washington [Mr. CAIN] and the Senator from Michigan [Mr. VANDENBERG] are absent by leave of the Senate.

The Senator from Massachusetts [Mr. LODGE] is necessarily absent.

The VICE PRESIDENT. A quorum is present.

NOTIFICATION TO THE PRESIDENT

Mr. MCFARLAND submitted the following resolution (S. Res. 1), which was read, considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That a committee consisting of two Senators be appointed to join such committee as may be appointed by the House of Representatives to wait upon the President of the United States and inform him that a quorum of each House is assembled and that the Congress is ready to receive any communication he may be pleased to make.

The VICE PRESIDENT appointed Mr. MCFARLAND and Mr. WHERRY the committee on the part of the Senate.

NOTIFICATION TO THE HOUSE

Mr. WHERRY submitted the following resolution (S. Res. 2), which was read, considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the Secretary inform the House of Representatives that a quorum of the Senate is assembled and that the Senate is ready to proceed to business.

HOUR OF DAILY MEETING

Mr. JOHNSON of Texas submitted the following resolution (S. Res. 3), which was read, considered by unanimous consent, and agreed to:

Resolved, That the hour of daily meeting of the Senate be 12 o'clock meridian unless otherwise ordered.

LEAVES OF ABSENCE

Mr. FERGUSON. Mr. President, I wish to ask unanimous consent that until further notice my distinguished colleague the senior Senator from Michigan [Mr. VANDENBERG] may be excused from attending the sessions of the Senate, because of illness.

The VICE PRESIDENT. Without objection, leave is granted.

Mr. WHERRY. Mr. President, I also wish to ask such unanimous consent. I wish to make the same request today that I made yesterday, in behalf of the Senator from Washington [Mr. CAIN], namely, that he be excused from attending the sessions of the Senate until January 22.

The VICE PRESIDENT. Without objection, it is so ordered.

RECESS TO FRIDAY

Mr. MCFARLAND. Mr. President, it has been the custom and the uniform practice for many years that the Senate not transact any business prior to the delivery by the President of the United States of his address on the state of the Union. I therefore move that the Senate now stand in recess until 12 o'clock noon on Friday next.

Mr. WHERRY. Mr. President, will the Senator by unanimous consent permit me to address a question to him before the motion is put?

Mr. McFARLAND. Certainly.

Mr. WHERRY. Does the motion mean that, if it is agreed to, no business of any kind—such as speeches, the introduction of bills, or anything of that sort—will be transacted on Friday, either?

Mr. McFARLAND. I think, as a courtesy to the President, we should not transact any business whatsoever, on Friday as well.

Mr. TAFT. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. McFARLAND. I yield.

Mr. TAFT. Does the Senator think that is necessary, when the President has postponed his speech for an entire week? Formerly we always had the President's address the day after the Senate met.

As a matter of fact, no courtesy is involved, because in the House of Representatives there has always been the introduction of bills on the very first day they met.

Does the Senator think it is necessary to delay the business of the Senate for an entire week because the President is not able or willing at this time to deliver his state of the Union message?

Mr. McFARLAND. Mr. President, I certainly believe it is desirable to follow the usual custom which has been uniformly practiced in the past. It is clear, I think, that no legislative time will be gained by the introduction of bills and resolutions today or Friday since the committees are not yet organized and will not be able to transact any legislative business prior to next Monday. While the interval is somewhat longer than on former occasions, there is nothing to be gained by breaking precedents now. I hope we will continue to follow precedents.

Mr. TAFT. Mr. President, will the Senator yield further?

Mr. McFARLAND. I yield.

Mr. TAFT. Does the Senator realize that the President will then have delayed the whole action of this body by nearly a week by his failure to deliver his state of the Union message immediately, as he always has done heretofore, and as has been the custom? Furthermore, apparently the budget message, upon which much of the action of Congress must be based, is to be postponed until January 15, whereas we have often had urged upon us that we had to come back to special sessions and had to rush through many bills almost the day after they were introduced. Now we are asked to delay action by the Senate for almost 2 weeks, not only on legislative proposals, but also in the way of expressions of opinion by Members of the Senate on questions that are before the Senate of the United States and before the people of the country.

Mr. McFARLAND. Mr. President, I should like to call the attention of the distinguished Senator from Ohio to the fact that the Senate was in session yesterday, and as a result there is legislation which is on the President's desk, awaiting his consideration. Moreover, the duties of the President in these times of crisis are great, and require a great deal of his time.

Equally important, I already have pointed out that the Senate committee memberships have not yet been appointed, and it is obvious the Senate cannot transact any legislative business until the respective committees have been manned and are able to function. Under these circumstances it seems clear that the introduction of bills and resolutions prior to next Monday does not in any way affect the timetable of Senate operations.

I certainly think this is a courtesy which should be extended to the President of the United States. We should not break the custom which has prevailed for many years, since no time will be lost.

Mr. President, I shall renew my motion.

Mr. CHAVEZ. Mr. President—

The VICE PRESIDENT. The Chair would suggest to the Senator from Arizona that heretofore it has not been customary to make a motion or to ask unanimous consent for that purpose. The Chair has usually assumed that Senators would accord to the President the courtesy of not introducing bills until after the President had delivered his message to the joint session of the two Houses.

Mr. McFARLAND. Mr. President, my motion was that the Senate stand in recess until Friday, but I have withheld the motion temporarily.

The VICE PRESIDENT. Yes; the Senator from Arizona withheld his motion. Does he now renew it?

Mr. McFARLAND. First, I yield to the Senator from New Mexico.

Mr. CHAVEZ. I ask the Senator to yield to me, only to permit me to ask a brief question: Can the Senator from Arizona tell the Senate now whether by next Monday or Tuesday the committees will have been appointed so that legislative matters can be taken up after the President delivers his annual message?

Mr. McFARLAND. We shall act with due diligence in seeing that the committees are appointed, so that there will not be any more delay than is absolutely necessary.

Mr. BREWSTER. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. McFARLAND. I yield.

Mr. BREWSTER. Does the Senator feel that the question of having discussions on the floor of the Senate comes under the heading of the transaction of business?

Mr. McFARLAND. I would answer the distinguished Senator in this way: I think it would be most discourteous to the President of the United States for the Senate to engage in debate prior to the delivery of the President's message.

Mr. BREWSTER. Would not the Senator feel that, in view of the delay, no custom is involved, and that possibly if we were to follow the Senator's suggestion, a precedent would be established as a consequence of which future Presidents might delay even more indefinitely the delivery of their State of the Union message? Should we not consider the matter carefully before establishing the precedent of extending the time?

Mr. McFARLAND. My answer to the Senator's question is that none of us should regard this as an unusual delay in view of the circumstances. I have said before that the problems confronting the President are great. We were in session yesterday. The President has important proposed legislation upon his desk. I do not regard waiting until Monday as an unusual delay.

Mr. TAFT. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. McFARLAND. I yield.

Mr. TAFT. It is not true, however, that this is not a question of courtesy, because the House of Representatives has never engaged in the custom to which reference has been made. The House of Representatives has always acted on the first day of the session; Members of the House have introduced bills on the first day of the session, and have gone ahead with business, without waiting for the delivery of the President's message.

So it seems to me to be merely a matter of custom.

I suggest to the Senator that the President is the one who has changed the custom, by postponing his state of the Union message to a time which will keep the Senate inactive in the interval, and, regardless of what is said, will delay the ultimate action of the Senate on many measures because of his delay.

Mr. McFARLAND. The distinguished Senator from Ohio is entitled to his opinion, and I respect it. He is correct in alluding to the proposed procedure as a custom, and I am merely suggesting that we follow precedent. I hope, therefore, he will not insist upon objecting to the first request which is being made on the opening day of the new Congress.

Mr. TAFT. Mr. President, will the Senator yield?

Mr. McFARLAND. I yield.

Mr. TAFT. I do not object at all to having the Senate take a recess to Friday, but on Friday I propose to raise the question again.

Mr. SMITH of New Jersey. Mr. President, will the Senator yield in order to permit an insertion to be made in the Record?

Mr. McFARLAND. Mr. President, the Senate will meet on Friday, and the Senator from Ohio has stated that he again will raise the question on Friday.

Therefore, I now move that the Senate stand in recess until Friday next, at 12 o'clock noon.

The motion was agreed to; and (at 12 o'clock and 37 minutes p. m.) the Senate took a recess until Friday, January 5, 1951, at 12 o'clock meridian.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 3, 1951

This being the day fixed by the twentieth amendment of the Constitution for the annual meeting of the Congress of the United States, the Members of the House of Representatives of the Eighty-second Congress met in their Hall, and at 12 o'clock noon were called to order by the Clerk of the House of Representatives, Hon. Ralph R. Roberts.

The Chaplain of the Eighty-first Congress, Rev. Bernard Braskamp, D. D., offered the following prayer:

O Thou eternal God, in this first meeting of our Eighty-second Congress, we are again reverently approaching Thy throne of grace and mercy, of majesty and power, through the old and familiar way of prayer which is never closed to those who come with a humble spirit and a contrite heart.

We thank Thee for our beloved country, conceived in sacrifice, dedicated to Thy glory, and consecrated to the service of all mankind. May we now prize our Nation more highly as we think of our fellow citizens out on the fields of battle defending our liberties to the utmost.

We pray that our President, our Speaker, and all the Members of this legislative body, who have been entrusted with the high vocation of leadership in the affairs of government, may be guided by Thy divine spirit in all their deliberations and decisions as they seek to lead struggling humanity out of the night of darkness into the radiant light of a better day.

Grant that daily we may enter into counsel with the God of all wisdom, holding our own desires and wishes in abeyance until Thou dost declare Thy will and performing our duties with a pure and steadfast devotion.

May it be the goal of all our aspirations and endeavors to magnify Thy great and holy name and to hasten the coming of that blessed day when peace shall be the glorious possession of all the members of the human family and they shall walk together in the spirit of the Prince of Peace.

Wilt Thou hear us as we bow in adoration and unite in offering unto Thee the prayer of our Lord and Saviour:

Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done, on earth, as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread. And forgive us our debts, as we forgive our debtors. And lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. For Thine is the kingdom, and the power, and the glory, forever.

Amen.

ANSWERED "PRESENT"—3

Martin, Mass. Rayburn Reams

NOT VOTING—8

Angell Hoffman, Mich. Mansfield
 Cresser Horan O'Konski
 Gillette McDonough

The CLERK. The tellers agree in their tally. The total number of votes cast is 426, of which the Honorable SAM RAYBURN, of Texas, received 231, and the Honorable JOSEPH W. MARTIN, JR., of Massachusetts, received 192; present, 3.

Therefore, the Honorable SAM RAYBURN, a Representative-elect from the State of Texas is duly elected Speaker of the House of Representatives for the Eighty-second Congress.

The Clerk appoints the following committee to escort the Speaker-elect to the chair: The gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. McCORMACK], the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. SABATH], the gentleman from North Carolina [Mr. DOUGHTON], the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. MARTIN], the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HALLECK], and the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. ALLEN].

Mr. MARTIN of Massachusetts. My colleagues, it is a privilege for me to stand on this exalted platform even if it is only for a few moments. It is one of the compensations of a defeated candidate; he is permitted to share in the reflected glory of the victor. I admit that several months ago I had ideas I might occupy this position a little longer than I am going to today; the decision has been otherwise, however, and I have no regrets. But, seriously, it is a happy place assigned to me.

Ten years ago the Members of this House elected a Speaker. He has served with one interruption, which I might say with the indulgence of the Speaker, was a happy interlude. He has now been chosen for a sixth term. On January 30 of this year he will have served as Speaker of the House longer than any other man in American history. The record previously was held by that able, distinguished, and most notable son of Kentucky, Henry Clay. On January 30 our Speaker will have exceeded his tenure of office.

One cannot be elected Speaker for all that period of time without being a fine character, a man of extraordinary ability, great fairness, and a parliamentarian par excellence. Those are virtues which we have in our Speaker. In this hour of confusion, this hour of uncertainty when none of us knows what the future has ahead, we have a man who has the courage; we have a man who has the firmness to do that which is right, to the end that our country may emerge a better country. We are sometimes misunderstood by our friends in other countries. We fight, we debate, we vote, and then we settle the question. They cannot understand that these are the practical principles that make for a democracy, a republic. They cannot see either that when our fight is over, that when we reach a decision, we are all united, we are all Americans with but one thought: To make America a better land for all our people.

So, ladies and gentlemen, without further ado, it gives me great pleasure to present to you your Speaker and my Speaker, the Honorable SAM RAYBURN, of Texas.

Mr. RAYBURN. Mr. MARTIN, my beloved colleague and predecessor in this position for a time, and Members of the United States House of Representatives: I should be less than human if the remarks of the gentleman from Massachusetts did not touch me deeply, or if your action here today renewing your confidence in me did not sink deeply into an appreciative soul. I shall never cease to hold in grateful memory the favor of my colleagues on the Democratic side and the courtesy, the kindness, and the helpfulness of my colleagues on the Republican side in the trying days in which I have occupied this position, sometimes of terrible responsibility.

I come back to you today to renew the pledge that I have made to you many times before: That I will do my best to conduct the affairs of this office in the way that may be pleasing to you and pleasing to my countrymen.

As the gentleman from Massachusetts suggested, we live in troubled days. In my deliberate opinion, looking around the earth, everyone now living in any democracy, where freedom and liberty still exist, live in the most dangerous time they ever lived in or anyone ever lived in since the foundation of this Republic. So it behooves us to lay aside little differences, lay aside all criticism that is not constructive, that is not helpful, and all of us join and pledge ourselves that this, the greatest, the freest and the finest government that ever existed upon the face of the earth shall be strong enough to maintain its liberty and its security.

I trust in these times that there will not be too many domestic issues that will divide us and take our minds and our effort away from the great problems that face us in the world today. We live in a world where people live closer together than they ever lived before. Distances amount to little. There was a time when we boasted that we had two great friends, the Atlantic Ocean and the Pacific Ocean. During our last war they became hazardous things. And let me say to you it matters not where other counsel may come from, I feel that I know the United States of America cannot wrap two oceans around it and stay secure, safe, and free.

We are a part of this world and we must remain that. This great democracy, challenged with the leadership of the world that we have accepted and that we must have accepted, is the leader of the democracies of the world, the pattern for free peoples the earth around, and unless we perform our duties and our mission in the days to come I fear we will have a world that will not be a fit place for men and women and children to live in.

So my efforts shall be to join with all patriotic men and women in this House, and they are all patriotic men and women, devoted to the high purposes and to the great principles upon which this democracy was founded, to do the things that will make us so strong that international desperados and despots will fear to get in our path. This we must do if civilization itself is to survive.

During the months ahead I shall work with you, every one of you, to make this come true so that one day again we may return to an enduring peace that men and women will know what tomorrow will bring. From the bottom of a grateful heart I again thank you.

I am now ready to take the oath of office and I will ask my distinguished friend the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. SABATH], dean of the House, to administer the oath.

Mr. SABATH then administered the oath of office to Mr. RAYBURN.

The question was taken; and Rev. Bernard Braskamp, D. D., was elected Chaplain.

Resolved, That the Secretary inform the House of Representatives that a quorum of the Senate is assembled and that the Senate is ready to proceed to business.

RULES OF THE HOUSE

Mr. SABATH. Mr. Speaker, I offer a resolution (H. Res. 7) and ask for its immediate consideration.

The Clerk read the resolution, as follows:

Resolved, That the rules of the House of Representatives of the Eighty-first Congress, together with all applicable provisions of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946, be, and they are hereby, adopted as the rules of the House of Representatives of the Eighty-second Congress.

Mr. SABATH. Mr. Speaker, the resolution I have just presented to the House for its consideration extends the rules under which the business of the House was conducted in the last Congress to the present one. It insures and protects every Member's right and privilege to go on record and vote for or against vital legislation.

I am of the opinion that the rules which prevailed in the Eighty-first Congress have worked well, have safeguarded the rights and interests of the several committees and their members, and have been for the best interests of our Nation. Some gentlemen who were opposed to the adoption of the rules in the Eighty-first Congress were under the impression that the Committee on Rules, of which I have the honor to be chairman, would be deprived of some of its rights and privileges.

May I state, having been a member of the Committee on Rules for 20 years, as well as chairman for 12 years, of what is claimed to be the most powerful committee of the House, that that committee functioned fairly well during the Eighty-first Congress notwithstanding the effectiveness of the 21-day discharge amendment to the rules, and there is no justification for reverting to the rules in effect during the Eightieth Congress.

The Committee on Rules, during the last Congress, reported a total of 240 bills, rules, and resolutions. For the information of the membership, here is what the Committee on Rules accomplished in the Eighty-first Congress:

During the first session 116 bills and resolutions were considered by the committee. Eighty-two rules were granted on general legislation. Nine House joint resolutions and Senate joint resolutions were granted rules. Fourteen resolutions providing investigatory power to standing committees of the House were reported favorably. Two resolutions providing for special investigating committees were reported favorably. One resolution creating a small-business committee was favorably reported. Two resolutions providing for recess and suspension of the rules were reported favorably. Four House concurrent resolutions were reported favorably. One resolution assigning delegates to various committees of the House was reported favorably. Only one rule was denied, that on the rivers and harbors flood-control bill.

During the second session, 99 House and Senate bills and resolutions were considered by the committee. Eighty-seven rules were granted on general legislation. Nine House resolutions were reported favorably. Three House joint resolutions were granted rules.

As stated previously, the grand total of bills and resolutions granted rules or were favorably reported is 214.

At the same time I wish to say that under the rules, as amended by the Eighty-first Congress, providing for the 21-day discharge rule the House had the privilege and the opportunity of voting on eight important bills reported favorably by legislative committees on which the Committee on Rules failed to act or denied rules thereon, namely, the rivers and harbors flood-control bill, the joint resolution providing for United States participation in international organizations, the bills providing statehood for Alaska and Hawaii, the National Science Foundation bill, the mining bill, the veterans' hospital bill, and the poll-tax bill.

Under leave granted me yesterday, I shall file with the House at a later date, a separate and complete report on the rules granted and the resolutions favorably reported by the Committee on Rules during the last Congress. The foregoing shows that under the rules of the Eighty-first Congress, which my resolution now seeks to continue in the Eighty-second Congress, when the Rules Committee failed to act, the committee chairman had the opportunity, the privilege, and the right to offer his own rule, under which rule these bills were acted upon by the House. Otherwise none of them could have been considered.

Consequently, I feel that the rules in effect during the Eighty-first Congress should be adopted, and that this resolution I have offered is proper, and in the best interests of legislative procedure.

I am of the opinion, in view of the fact that the Rules Committee was created as a policy committee, that it is the duty of the committee to seek to carry out the mandates of the House and to expedite legislation. It gives each and every chairman of a legislative committee, if he sees that the Rules Committee has failed to act on his bill, after considering it for weeks and months, the right to file his own rule for the course of the legislation. So, in the interest of the Members, in the interest of all legislative committees, I think the resolution before us should be adopted so we can continue to have orderly procedure and advance legislation that is recommended by the President and favorably reported to the House by the various committees. After all, Mr. Speaker, the President has certain duties to perform under the Constitution, namely, to recommend legislation to the Congress. Who is in a better position to recommend legislation than the President? I feel it is the duty of those of us in the majority to carry out the recommendation of the President as far as possible. The Rules Committee should carry out the wishes and desires of the majority, but unfortunately, as it is today, somehow or other, some of the gentlemen who belong to the Democratic Party, whose responsibility it is to carry out the program of the majority in power, do not work with their leaders, and, although we have a so-called majority on the Rules Committee here, it is only a paper majority. Unfortunately, frequently I have found myself in the minority on my committee. You may ask why? I answer that by saying because three of the Democratic members do not cooperate with the majority of the members but prefer to cooperate and deal with the Republican minority. In fact, only yesterday, or the day before, I am informed these three Democratic members of the Committee on Rules, elected by the Democrats as Democrats, were in conference with Republican leaders for the purpose of arranging for the defeat of the resolution I have presented here today, which provides for the continuance of the 21-day-discharge rule.

To what extent the Republicans have gone is, indeed, amazing, because I have it on good authority that some of the Republican liberal Members and new Members were clubbed into agreeing to vote against my resolution under the peril of not being considered for appointment to committees of their choice or for which they were best qualified. By this sort of action they are digging their own political graves.

History will repeat itself. Well do I recall the fight of the 25 progressive Republicans who joined with the Democratic forces in overthrowing "Cannonism" and in changing the rules of the House which permitted the consideration of legislation in the interest of the common people. They were derided and ridiculed by their Republican colleagues who legislated for the vested interests, yet in the ensuing election all of the 25 progressive Republicans were reelected and so many of their regular Republican colleagues who voted against the changing of the rules were defeated in such numbers as to bring about the election of a Democratic House.

Ever since I entered Congress I have fought for liberal rules providing for the conduct of business before this House. In fact, it was due to my resolution that Speaker Cannon, known as the czar, was shorn of his power to name all of the committees, which gave him absolute control of the House. Ever since, I have continued in my fight to safeguard the rights and privileges of Members to vote on bills that properly came before the House. The 21-day-discharge rule is in that direction because, as I have stated, when the Committee on Rules fails to act or acts adversely on a rule providing for the consideration of a bill, then the chairman of a legislative committee is empowered to file his own rule, thereby making it possible for the Members of the House to express themselves and to vote on legislation.

Being aware of the cooperation on the part of three Democratic members of the Committee on Rules with the Republican minority on the committee, and the prolonged fight to deny Members the right to vote on measures bottled up by the Committee on Rules, I fear that my resolution may not be adopted. However, I am satisfied that if that should occur, not only those who have entered into this unholy alliance but also those Members who will vote against my resolution will in the future regret their action, because the country and the press have approved of the 21-day discharge rule. The repeal of this liberalized rule will, as I have stated, tear down the rights of every Member.

It is to be regretted that this coalition uses its power to defeat liberal and progressive legislation, and that it invariably supports and votes for all legislation advocated by the vested interests, such as the infamous natural-gas bill, the tidelands oil bill, and the freight-rate basing-point bill.

This is proof, regardless of what the Republican leaders may say, that instead of having the interests of the people at heart, the special interests seem to be uppermost in their minds.

I shall not detain the House longer. There are quite a few others who wish to be heard on this resolution. However, I cannot conclude before I wish each and every one of you a Happy New Year. In addition to that, I want to congratulate the Speaker upon his reelection, and congratulate the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. MARTIN] upon his reelection as minority leader. I hope that both of them will be reelected often and many times to the same positions to which they have been elected today.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I ask for recognition on the resolution.

Mr. SABATH. Mr. Speaker, I reserve the remainder of my time and I do not yield to anyone to offer amendments. Under the rules I have 1 hour.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman has an hour under his control. How much time does he yield to the gentleman from Georgia?

Mr. SABATH. I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Georgia.

Mr. ALLEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, how about the minority? We still have certain privileges.

Mr. SABATH. I have assured the gentleman that he will receive a reasonable length of time.

Mr. ALLEN of Illinois. What is a reasonable length of time? Thirty minutes? Is not that the usual procedure in the House?

Mr. SABATH. I have explained to the gentleman, although I know that gentlemen on that side seem to be—and I regret it for they should not be—opposed to this legislation.

My time will be equally divided, evenly between those for and those against. So the gentleman will get sufficient time.

Mr. ALLEN of Illinois. Under this division how much time is the gentleman going to let the minority have?

Mr. SABATH. Thirty minutes, divided, 15 minutes on the Democratic side and 15 minutes on the Republican side.

Mr. ALLEN of Illinois. The gentleman means that the minority will have only 15 minutes?

Mr. SABATH. Oh, if the gentleman needs a little more time I may be able to find a little for him; he knows I am always fair.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Illinois is stating that he will yield the opposition 30 minutes; that is what he is stating, but some of the opposition seems to be over on the right.

Mr. ALLEN of Illinois. Under whose control?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Illinois [Mr. SABATH] has control of the time.

Mr. SABATH. May I say that I had a conference with the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HALLECK], with the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. ALLEN], and with the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. COX], and the gentleman from Virginia [Mr. SMITH] yesterday. I presume that is the opposition. So to you gentlemen combined I will grant and yield the 30 minutes; and the majority, those that are for the resolution, will also have only 30 minutes, no more; therefore, it will be evenly divided, honestly, fairly, squarely divided.

Mr. COX. Am I recognized, Mr. Speaker?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Georgia is recognized for 5 minutes for debate.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I offer a substitute.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Georgia was recognized for debate only.

Mr. COX. Then, Mr. Speaker, I do not wish recognition at this time.

Mr. RANKIN. Mr. Speaker, a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. RANKIN. Is it not in order for the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. Cox] or some other Member to offer a substitute for this resolution?

The SPEAKER. Not in the time of the gentleman from Illinois unless he yields for that purpose.

Mr. RANKIN. He is taking all the time; he is getting the entire hour.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is the mover of the resolution and has control of the time. The gentleman from Illinois, as is usual, has offered the resolution, and he was recognized for an hour, and that hour is under his control. He yielded for debate only.

Mr. COX. If I may be permitted, then, to speak for the contenders for change, the gentleman from Illinois may have the entire hour and we will use our time on the substitute resolution that I will offer in the event that the previous question is voted down.

Mr. MARTIN of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. MARTIN of Massachusetts. I wish to understand the parliamentary situation at the moment.

Mr. COX. If the gentleman will use his time—

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Massachusetts desires to propound a parliamentary inquiry.

The gentleman from Massachusetts will state the parliamentary inquiry.

Mr. MARTIN of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, as I understand the legislative situation, it is that any Member who has a resolution, either the gentleman from Georgia or anyone else, may not offer the resolution until the previous question is voted down.

The SPEAKER. If the previous question is moved and is voted down.

Mr. RANKIN. Mr. Speaker, I submit that in 1945, at the beginning of the Seventy-ninth Congress, we had this issue here when I offered my amendment creating the Committee on Un-American Activities; it was ruled in order. I think the gentleman from Georgia has the right to offer an amendment or a substitute.

The SPEAKER. The Chair does not think so unless the gentleman from Illinois yields for an amendment or the previous question is voted down.

Mr. SABATH. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. ALLEN] for debate only.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Illinois [Mr. ALLEN] is recognized for 5 minutes for debate.

Mr. ALLEN of Illinois. Just a moment ago the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. SABATH] told me 15 minutes. Is he going to yield me any time that I may yield in my own right?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Illinois [Mr. ALLEN] does not have any time except what has been yielded to him.

Mr. SABATH. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. ALLEN] 30 minutes, if he desires to yield time, but to be used for debate only.

Mr. ALLEN of Illinois. I will accept it.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Illinois [Mr. ALLEN] is recognized for 30 minutes.

Mr. ALLEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield myself such time as I might require.

Mr. Speaker, just a few minutes ago I took the oath of office as a Member of this House for the tenth time. During most of those years I served as a member of the Rules Committee—14 years to be exact. I can truthfully say that during the past 2 years under rules adopted by the Eighty-first Congress there has been much more confusion in the Rules Committee than ever before. I think and believe this body will change them.

I want to mention briefly to the new Members here today the action of the Eightieth Congress and preceding Congresses as compared to the action of the Eighty-first Congress. During the Eightieth Congress I was chairman of the Rules Committee. I invited the attention of the members of the Rules Committee in session to the standing committees of the House which approved bills appropriating at least $20,000,000,000 more than the revenue estimated to be received by the Government in those 2 years.

We felt that something should be done about it, that the budget must be balanced even though it was necessary to hold up several bills with considerable merit. As a result of the rules adopted by the Eightieth Congress that Congress saved the taxpayers considerable money and for the first time in 18 years the income of the Federal Government was larger than its outgo. In other words, since 1933 it was the first Congress that balanced the budget. So I say to you that if you are interested in cutting down nondefense spending you should vote down the previous question.

Under the rule adopted by the Eighty-first Congress what happened? A few moments ago we heard our beloved Speaker mention the great responsibilities that have been his. We all admit that. What has happened under this rule? Many more great responsibilities have been added to the Speaker's burden. There is no question but what the Speaker of this House has taken unto himself the responsibilities of the Rules Committee. During the Eighty-first Congress he had more responsibilities and power than Uncle Joe Cannon had during a half century of work in this Congress.

You will be told that the Rules Committee will try to bottle up legislation. During the Eighty-first Congress there was considerable confusion in the Rules Committee. There were very few meetings of the Rules Committee in which it was not necessary to go out and put additional responsibilities on the Speaker. Now to you new Members I will say this: There are two ways that the membership of this House can get bills to the floor for final determination. It will be stated that we are trying to take away from you the right to act on meritorious bills. You have the right to sign the discharge petition, which takes effect when 218 names appear thereon, and on Calendar Wednesday you also have the right to be recognized, so the Rules Committee does not have absolute power on any bills. The majority of the membership can bring any bill on the floor of the House for action.

I hope, Mr. Speaker, that when the previous question is moved, that it is voted down.

Mr. HALLECK. Mr. Speaker, a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. HALLECK. The gentleman from Illinois [Mr. SABATH] yielded 30 minutes to the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. ALLEN]. He has now addressed the House. Is it in order now for me to ask him to yield to me in order that I may speak in the 30 minutes granted to him by the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. SABATH]?

The SPEAKER. The Chair would think so.

Mr. HALLECK. Mr. Speaker, a further parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. HALLECK. In view of the granting of the time to the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. ALLEN], is it possible for him to grant time of the 30 minutes that has not been used by him?

The SPEAKER. The Chair would say so.

Mr. SABATH. May I say this: I have promised three different gentlemen on your side some time, and I promised four gentlemen on this side some time. I hope that there will be no misunderstanding and that you will have sufficient time as well as those Members that have sought to obtain time heretofore.

Mr. CASE. Mr. Speaker, if the gentleman will yield, the gentleman has promised to yield some time to those who are against the change. I, as one of those, should prefer to get it from the Republican side. Since the gentleman has yielded 30 minutes of his time to the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. ALLEN], I understand from the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. ALLEN] that I may get such time as I think reasonable from him on that score.

Mr. ALLEN of Illinois. Let me ask the gentleman from Illinois this question. I am not going to yield half of my time to people over here in sympathy with the resolution, unless the gentleman gives some of his time to those on our side.

Mr. SABATH. That is what I am going to do.

Mr. ALLEN of Illinois. The gentleman may then go ahead, and I will act accordingly.

Mr. SABATH. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. EBERHARTER].

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I think that this House, on the first day of the session, is being called upon to make what will be a historic decision. That being true I think it appropriate to remind this House that in the early days of the Republic we did not need a Committee on Rules. There were fewer Members, less business, and the then Speaker was able to control the legislation for the good of the country. It was found, as we expanded, that we needed a Committee on Rules, and it was set up, Mr. Speaker, only for the purpose of regulating the traffic and the business of the House so we could have orderly and regular procedure. To legislative committees of the House were given the authority to pass on the merits of any legislation submitted by the President or by any Members of the House. The legislative committees took time to study it, and then it was referred to the Committee on Rules so that we could have orderly consideration on the floor of the House. But, as time developed, the Committee on Rules wandered away from its original purpose. It started not to regulate the flow of legislation to the floor of the House; it started to block legislation. But, that is not the worst thing that the Committee on Rules developed into the habit of doing.

It developed a habit of studying legislation that had been studied for maybe weeks or months by the legislative committees. The committee began to dissect that legislation and make up their own minds as to whether or not it was good legislation. Many a chairman of a legislative committee which had considered legislation for months and months was ordered by the Committee on Rules to change the provisions of legislation before a rule would be granted. That was a denial of the purposes of setting up legislative committees. It was a denial of the purpose for which the Committee on Rules was set up. It was a denial of the right of the Members to vote upon legislation.

Many, many chairmen of committees in order to get legislation which their committees had approved unanimously felt compelled to strike out or change provisions in order to satisfy the whim of two or three Members of Congress who happened to be on the Committee on Rules.

I submit, Mr. Speaker, we have made some progress in the last 2 years. If we go back to the old rules, we are simply turning over, Mr. Speaker, not to seven members of the Committee on Rules but to a majority of seven members, four members, the power to say what legislation this House shall consider. If seven members of the Committee on Rules sit on the question of granting a rule for a piece of legislation, and four of those members are against it, that legislation will not be reported out. The House will be stymied and its will will be denied, the will of the people will be denied, and the House will not even be allowed to debate that legislation.

I submit that the country will resent any action taken by this House today which seeks to rescind the rule which was adopted 2 years ago and which has been approved by the overwhelming majority of the people of this country. I think it would be a crime to abrogate our right at least to debate legislation which has been approved by legislative committees.

Mr. ALLEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HALLECK].

Mr. HALLECK. Mr. Speaker, in my 16 years here I have heard the Committee on Rules condemned for its failure to report rules on some measures reported by legislative committees. On the other hand, I have heard the great Committee on Rules very often commended in the highest terms for what many said was a noble, patriotic, and high-minded action in preventing certain measures from coming to the floor.

I served on the Committee on Rules for a number of years. I served under the chairmanship of the very genial gentleman from Illinois, Judge SABATH. I also served in one Congress as majority leader. I think I am qualified to speak about the position of the Committee on Rules and its responsibility to the House of Representatives, yes, and to the country, and to speak of the great, overall, end good, that has been accomplished by the Committee on Rules through the years and prior to the advent of the so-called 21-day rule.

Let me say further: To try to adjust the rules of the House of Representatives to meet an immediate or a particular situation existing today which may not exist tomorrow is, in my opinion, a mistake. I think the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. SABATH] rather indicated that such is the reason this move is being made, in view of his statement that all of the President's suggestions should be enacted into law.

Let us get this matter out in the open. Let us quit shadow boxing about it. Let us talk about it as a matter of principle. The reason the proponents of the 21-day rule are so vigorous and so active is that they think they see in the Committee on Rules something of a balance wheel in the way of unwise, unsound, and ill-timed, spendthrift, socialistic measures which, in my opinion and the opinion of many others, should not be enacted into law. Again let me refer to the remarks of my very good friend the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. SABATH]. He says he is for all of the President's program. I take it that would include socialized medicine, the socialistic Brannan farm program, and all of the other things we have heard about.

The gentleman from Illinois says he occasionally finds himself in the minority on the Committee on Rules. I take it that what he is saying to us quite frankly is that he is afraid if he did get a socialized-medicine bill out of a legislative committee the Committee on Rules would not report it to the floor.

Let me say, for my part, that if such a bill did come out of a legislative committee I would want the Committee on Rules to block it.

Through the years the Committee on Rules has been the strong right arm of responsible leadership. That is the reason the committee is made up of eight members of the majority party and four members of the minority party. It has always been that way. It was that way when there were only 88 Republicans in the House of Representatives.

Now, the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. EBERHARTER] says that the only purpose of the Committee on Rules is to regulate the flow of traffic. Once in a while, if responsible leadership decrees otherwise, the regulation could mean stopping the flow of traffic. In my opinion, that is in the best interests of the Nation.

If the Committee on Rules is to grant a rule on every bill which is reported, regardless of what the position of the leadership may be and regardless of what the chances of enactment of such legislation on the floor of the House might be, then I ask, "Why have the Committee on Rules at all?" Except, I might remind you, that every once in a while the gentleman from Pennsylvania and others of the Committee on Ways and Means are not averse to asking the Committee on Rules to give them a gag rule or a closed rule so that measures which they bring to the floor will not be subject to amendment.

It ought to be clear to everyone, there are a great many bills reported out by legislative committees which should not come to the floor of the House for action. Probably I am treading on dangerous ground, but I am going to say this: Legislative committees very frequently tend to draw to their ranks people whose interests are those of the committee, and very often it happens that in the work of the committee through the years the members of the committee tend to become special pleaders for that particular interest. Many times they report legislation which is out of line with what the leadership wants and which is out of line with what the overall majority of the membership of the House wants. What sense does it make to bring measures like that to the floor of the House?

May I say—and this is in the nature of a confession we might as well make and be frank with ourselves—that occasionally legislative committees report measures which they think are good. Meanwhile, responsible leaders, concerned about the state of the Treasury and the impact generally on the economy of the country, decide the measure should not be enacted into law. The majority of the Members deep down in their hearts many times think it should not be enacted into law. But let us just admit now, my colleagues, that every now and then you get a measure like that. And you know as well as I do, if it comes to the floor of the House of Representatives it is going to be passed. Our beloved Speaker told us he hoped not too many domestic issues would be acted on in this Congress. Apparently the Speaker of the House of Representatives, and the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. SABATH] have their wires crossed because the gentleman from Illinois thinks we should have all these measures on the floor of the House.

As far as the war effort is concerned, and as far as our national defense effort is concerned, the Committee on Rules will not under any circumstances stand in the way of any action needed to be taken. I well recall that in the Eightieth Congress we had the matter of selective service presented to us. I think it is fair to say that a majority of the members of the Committee on Rules, as that committee was then constituted, were not in favor of the enactment of the Selective Service Act.

But when the Republican leadership said to them, "This measure must be brought on for action," the Rules Committee voted out a rule.

As far as I have been able to discover in my 16 years here, by and large the Rules Committee has responded when the leadership very definitely said a measure must come to the floor for action.

The SPEAKER. The time of the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HALLECK] has again expired.

Mr. SABATH. Mr. Speaker, I yield 5 minutes to the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. McCORMACK].

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, we have listened to the distinguished gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HALLECK], and we who have been here are well acquainted with his reasoning and his arguments, because he is sincere in his position, and he is very sincere in a status quo state of mind. My friend is very hesitant to look into the future; to try to travel in the future in the best way possible to meet the problems that the reasonably near future presents to us.

He has made the same stereotyped argument that we have heard in the past. Two years ago, when this rule was overwhelmingly adopted, and then later when they had a coalition, which is functioning now—the country is not deceived, they know what is going on today. The Republican Party is the tail of the kite of certain Democratic Members. From a political angle it is the Republican Party that is on trial, in my opinion, because the Eightieth Congress, which was a very powerful factor in the election of President Truman, made a record, and that record was made by the Republican members of the Rules Committee, with that coalition. But they had a majority then. Six Members in the Eightieth Congress on the Republican side made the record of the Eightieth Congress upon which President Truman made his campaign. They tied up the low-cost housing bill. They would not let it come to the floor of the House. Countless Members on the Republican side tried to get it up for consideration. The Rules Committee, in a dictatorial manner, refused absolutely, despite the pleading of Republican Members, to let the bill come up for consideration, to let the House consider that bill. There were several other important bills that they bottled up in the committee arbitrarily. Six men arrogated to themselves complete authority of this House, to prevent the will of the majority from being expressed.

Only the other day we had the union-shop bill under consideration. It passed the House by an overwhelming majority. An overwhelming majority of the House was in favor of that bill. Only about 52 Members of the House, as I remember it, voted against it a few days ago. Yet that bill was tied up in the Rules Committee for months. They never did grant a rule on it.

I remember last year when they brought up this matter the second time, when they talk about the Rules Committee economizing, that same committee reported out a bonus bill that would have cost the Government billions of dollars, and we had to recommit it by one or two votes. That is the very committee that tries to present the argument that we are going to save money.

Only a few days after, in the last Congress, we defeated the attempt to repeal this rule, the Rules Committee reported out a bill that would have meant billions of dollars of the taxpayers' money if it had been passed. So, the argument of economy falls to the ground. So, what is the real issue? The real issue is whether you and I, elected as Members of this House, in our own right, are going to permit six men to prevent bills which have been reported out of standing committees, bills of a general nature, of interest to the people of the country, from being considered by this House. We are not taking any rights away from the Rules Committee. We give them a reasonable period within which to report a rule. If they do not report a rule, then the chairman of the standing committee can file a resolution under the 21-day discharge rule and if the Committee on Rules does not report a rule out within 21 days, the chairman of the standing committee may call up the bill on 2 days a month. If there are a number of such 21-day discharge resolutions outstanding, the question of recognition rests with the Speaker of the House of Representatives.

This rule was brought about to unshackle the House from the dictatorial control of six members of the Committee on Rules.

The first vote will come on ordering the previous question. If the previous question is ordered, that is the end; if the previous question is voted down, a motion will be offered to strike from the rules the 21-day discharge provision. That will be considered and then there will be a straight vote on the amendment. I hope the previous question will be adopted. If so, that will close all debate for the day on that and settle the question. On the other hand, if it is not adopted I hope that the substitute to be proposed will be defeated, because if adopted it will bring back the dictatorial control of this great body by six members of the Committee on Rules.

Mr. ALLEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. HERTER].

Mr. HERTER. Mr. Speaker, when the change of rules was adopted it was supposed to take the shackles of the dictatorial power of the Rules Committee off of the membership. The change was adopted under peculiar circumstances. The gentleman from Illinois [Mr. SABATH] moved that the rules of the House of the previous session be adopted with an amendment; that amendment was not in type; it was not printed; nobody had a chance to read it. Then the gentleman from Illinois moved the previous question so there could be no debate on the subject. Today, at least, we have a chance to talk about the issue that is involved. The only phase I want to talk about is this question of the House having no appeal from the dictatorial action of the Committee on Rules.

It so happens that I have been a member of the Committee on Rules for the past 4 years. It is very probable that I shall not be a member of that committee in this session; hence, I am not talking to you wanting any personal power.

We have had in the rules of the House for many, many years a provision known as Calendar Wednesday, under which on every second Wednesday during the entire session, unless two-thirds of the membership signify their willingness to waive the rule, the chairmen of committees may bring up legislation which has been voted out of their committees and which is on either the Union or the Consent Calendar, without any reference whatever to the Rules Committee. That particular proviso has been in the rules since time immemorial and has been used here on occasion.

I am amazed when I hear the majority leader and the gentleman who has been chairman of the Committee on Rules for so many years say that the Committee on Rules is in a position to block anything it sees fit to block. I have heard the majority leader here day after day after day move to suspend the rules with regard to Calendar Wednesday. He knows as well as I do that last year one of the most controversial measures brought before the House came before the House under operation of the Calendar Wednesday rule and not because of the 21-day rule.

Why not return to what was an orderly method of procedure?

Mr. RANKIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. HERTER. I yield to the gentleman from Mississippi.

Mr. RANKIN. The Rules Committee was set up by a group of the broadest-minded men who ever served in the Congress, for the very purpose the gentleman is talking about. I want to call attention to one thing the gentleman has left out. We can petition a bill out by the signatures of half the membership. It takes half the membership to do that.

Mr. HERTER. The gentleman is correct. The majority of the House at any time can express its will. In other words, the House can override what has been referred to as the dictatorial powers of the Rules Committee.

The SPEAKER. The time of the gentleman from Massachusetts has expired.

Mr. ALLEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield the gentleman one additional minute.

Mr. HERTER. Mr. Speaker, I want to add one other thing. In any orderly procedure you have got to have some clearing body whether you call it a policy committee or a rules committee in the operations of the House. The majority party has been given double the number of members of the minority party in exercising its function in the Rules Committee. Years ago the power was taken away from the Speaker of the House to appoint committee members in the House when that power was abused and there has been in the past an altering of the rules because of the actions of single individuals. This change in the rules came about because certain Members, particularly on the majority side, on account of the seniority rule which was adopted many years ago, were distrustful of their own membership in steering their own party policy. That is a situation, Mr. Speaker, that should not be remedied by a change of rules. That is a situation that ought to be changed by the majority party in selecting its own members of the Rules Committee.

The SPEAKER. The time of the gentleman from Massachusetts has again expired.

Mr. ALLEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. CASE].

Mr. CASE. Mr. Speaker, I regret that an attempt was made on the part of the majority to make it appear that they alone were opposed to this change in the rules. There are a number of Members on this side of the aisle who are opposed to eliminating the 21-day rule and who have been all along. I am one of them.

It seems to me very clear that the rules as they now stand are better than they would be if the proposed change were made for the reason that now the majority leadership has, as it should have, the responsibility for determining what the legislative program will be. That responsibility is much clearer than it would be if the rules were changed back.

I do not say that the 21-day rule is perfect or that it always works. It is not perfect. But under it the responsibility of the majority is clearer than it would otherwise be. As a matter of fact, it has not always worked. In the case of the FEPC bill it did not work. But in the case of the FEPC bill we were able under the rule to determine squarely where the responsibility lay. It was impossible in that instance for the majority leadership to avoid the responsibility.

It should never be possible for the House to escape or avoid declaring its position on any important issue. And if protection is necessary against hasty action or the pressure of selfish groups, the responsibility for it should not be in a two-headed bipartisan operation as it is under the Rules Committee. It ought to be in the majority leadership. That responsibility should be clear, and the power should go with it.

I am confident that many of my colleagues on this side of the aisle will adhere to the position they have taken in the past and continue to support the 21-day rule.

Mr. ALLEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield 1 minute to the gentleman from New York [Mr. JAVITS].

Mr. JAVITS. Mr. Speaker, I have taken this time to identify myself with those on my side of the aisle who feel that the rule for bringing up bills under the 21-day rule should be retained in its present form.

I would like to say that I do not think this is either a Republican or a Democrat question. It is an American question. I have a deep and abiding belief in the principle that the private economy of the United States is the fundamental basis of our free institutions and I belong where I am on the Republican side of the aisle for that reason. But that tradition is exactly what compels me to oppose this proposed rules' change.

We are trying to influence the whole world on the side of freedom. The question before us in this 21-day rule is one of whether the people shall have more direct expression in the House than they had before when bills had to go through the Rules Committee. On that issue I think if we want to make the example to the world of the democratic process that we are preaching we must stand for the proposition that the people shall have the most direct access possible, which means keeping this 21-day rule exactly as it is.

The proof of the validity of this position is in the fact that despite Calendar Wednesday and the discharge petition, bills did get bottled up in the Rules Committee before the 21-day rule was put into effect—desirable bills that the country wanted. An outstanding example of how the 21-day rule can work in the very interests of the freedoms we are fighting for was the bringing up of the statehood bills for Hawaii and Alaska under the 21-day rule.

To repeal the 21-day rule is a step backward—this is not a time to move backward. I hope the House will vote down any change in this rule.

Mr. ALLEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield 3 minutes to the gentleman from Nebraska [Mr. CURTIS].

Mr. CURTIS of Nebraska. Mr. Speaker, in this Republic of ours it is very important that we proceed under an established system of laws. The respect that the House of Representatives will have throughout the country and the good that it will do will depend upon the system of procedure we have here and the fixing of definite responsibilities. I believe that the power of the Committee on Rules as it was exercised up until the recent change ought to be continued. I think we ought to have a right to vote for the rules as they existed prior to the change of 2 years ago. The test of liberalism in this body will be the vote on the previous question. Unless the previous question is voted down, the opponents of this particular rule will not get a chance to offer a substitute. So, let it be said if anyone here is contending for a liberal position, that gives all the parties a right to present their plans, they must vote down the previous question so that the alternative question can be submitted to the House.

Mr. Speaker, I take this position because I believe it is good for the country. I take this position because I am convinced that it will prevent the advancement for consideration and the passage of much legislation that will be very costly, legislation that we can do without. It will prevent the passage of much legislation that will enlarge this Government; that will put more burdens upon our citizens. It will retard the passage of legislation that will create more rules and regulations and restrictions for our citizens. I wonder how many Members in the campaign of last year promised their people that they were going to come down here and vote for a system to speed up the passage of legislation for the enlargement of our Government, of legislation that will cost more, of legislation that will establish more boards, bureaus, and agencies. Our survival depends upon the solvency of our country. This Congress must not miss a single chance to eliminate or reduce expenditures. These huge expenditures are causing the cost of living to soar and are destroying all values.

Now, a word to those new Members here. Under the rule that operated so successfully for many years, after a legislative committee reported out a bill, with the exception of certain privileged measures, it is sent to the Committee on Rules. It is a chance for a second look; a second consideration. What is wrong with that? The gentleman from Pennsylvania objected because the Committee on Rules studied the legislation and looked into its merits. Why should not legislation be studied at all stages?

My most impelling reason for taking the position I do is that I believe it will save the taxpayers of the country millions and millions of dollars. Thoughtful citizens over the country are very much concerned for the solvency of our Government. They are alert to the huge expenditures being made by this Congress.

Perhaps not enough attention is given to authorization measures. It is the authorization measures that set up new boards and bureaus and that call for new Government activities and services. These bills come from the legislative committees. We will grant that the legislative committees give thorough consideration to these proposals. They are usually unaware, however, of the proposals that are being advanced by other legislative committees. It is necessary and important that there be one committee that reviews all of these proposals. This way the sum total of the cost of these many proposals can be appraised. To have the Rules Committee exercise its traditional power retards the enactment of laws, it slows up the process of enlarging our Government.

If any proposal advanced by a legislative committee is extremely meritorious, if it is necessary and in the interest of our entire country, the Rules Committee will recognize that fact and permit the measure to come to the floor for consideration. The notion that the Rules Committee can thwart the will of the majority is without foundation of fact. A petition signed by a bare majority of 218 Members can take a bill away from the Rules Committee, or any other committee and bring it to the floor for consideration. In addition to the petition method, we have Calendar Wednesday whereby all the committees will have an opportunity to present legislation not otherwise reached in the legislative program. A vote against the Sabbath proposal and in favor of the Cox proposal is not a vote to give absolute and dictatorial powers to the Rules Committee. It is a vote for orderly procedure, thorough study, and for an appraisal of the total cost of the proposed acts of the House. In providing these safeguards it will not only mean less Government, but better Government, and it will retard the great increase in the cost of our Government.

The SPEAKER. The time of the gentleman from Nebraska has expired.

Mr. SABATH. Mr. Speaker, I yield 4 minutes to the gentleman from New York [Mr. CELLER].

Mr. CELLER. Mr. Speaker, these are critical times when totalitarian arms and ideas threaten democracy.

Democratic rights and ideas, however, can only be protected through full use thereof. Otherwise we surrender to totalitarian technique.

Formidable tasks ahead will challenge all the wisdom of all of us, not only a part of us.

All intelligence cannot reside in the members of the Rules Committee.

I urge no arbitrary limitation on our ability as Congressmen to decide democratically the momentous issues before us.

Abrogation of the 21-day rule means dangerous restraint upon our effectiveness.

Abrogation means road block to progress.

Abrogation means retreat from democratic process.

Some Rules Committee members have set their judgment athwart many worthy bills. Take, that is, H. R. 2734, the so-called Celler antimonopoly bill. The Rules Committee disregarded my request for a rule, held up the request for months, and finally drove me to ask the Speaker to suspend the rules and pass the bill. The Speaker granted my request. The bill passed overwhelmingly. The Senate accepted it and it is now law. If the Rules members had had their way, the monopolists would have had a field day. See the trouble the Rules Committee put me to, to get the bill passed.

During the Eighty-first Congress eight measures were brought up through resort to the 21-day rule. All passed the House. Furthermore availability of the rule forces the Rules Committee to clear any number of good bills.

Of course orderly procedure requires some supervision of House agenda, but it is absurd to allow ironclad, uninhibited control to a few.

I say to the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HALLECK] we need no wet nurse. We are able to take care of ourselves in the rank and file of Members. We need no protection. If what the gentleman said were sound, then let us all abdicate and let the Rules Committee rule completely as dictators.

I shall not surrender to any oligopoly to determine what shall or shall not come before the House.

Remember in an oligopoly "power is the only measure of right."

Congress, like any Nation, could not flourish if it does not march on. The proponents of abrogation of rule 21 would have us remain static—would have us maintain the status quo. To stand still is to move backward.

"Rules Committee-ism" is a canker in our body politic, if the 21-day rule is consigned to limbo. It means an all-powerful Rules Committee. We might as well, then, abdicate.

I warn, a canker has the habit of spreading. It would not end with the negation of the 21-day rule. Power begets power.

The Rules Committee would again become a giant of power. Shakespeare said in Measure for Measure, "It is excellent to have a giant's strength, but it is tyrannous to use it like a giant."

"Rules Committee-ism" will be as bad as "Thaddeus Stevens-ism." Stevens caused great wrong.

"Rules Committee-ism" is as bad as "Cannon-ism." Cannon caused great evil.

If the rule goes out the window then the Rules Committee would become virtual dictators. "Dictatorship is like a great beach tree—nice to look at but nothing grows under it."

Do not shirk responsibility, gentlemen.

Do not transfer your rights to a select coterie of Members. Amendments have been offered by members of the committee, what right has the Rules Committee to gainsay us and put up a road-block and say "No; the House shall have no opportunity to pass upon these bills"? If that is so, let all of us abdicate. Let us all resign here and now and say that the Rules Committee shall run the affairs of the House.

If the Rules Committee could have their way and this rule were abrogated they would be for the maintenance of the status quo. I say that to remain still is to go backwards. I do not want the country to go backward.

Mr. ALLEN of Illinois. Mr. Speaker, I yield the remaining time to the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. BROWN].

Mr. MURRAY of Tennessee. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. BROWN of Ohio. I yield.

Mr. MURRAY of Tennessee. I am chairman of a legislative committee, just as is the gentleman from New York. I do not appreciate the gentleman's criticism of the Committee on Rules. I believe in the Committee on Rules and I am in favor of changing the rules.

Mr. BROWN of Ohio. I thank the gentleman.

Mr. Speaker, I hope, within the time allotted to me, I may in my humble way contribute something toward clarifying this issue and making it better understood. May I begin by saying you have seen here today only that which you could expect. You have heard those who have been the handmaidens of a certain political philosophy attempting to retain as a part of the rules of the House the particular section pertaining to the 21-day procedure which has been mentioned here. You have heard others of us, who believe in a more realistic political philosophy, oppose that rule. It is only natural that the majority leader, who is very sincere in his position, should challenge and question the position of the gentleman from Indiana [Mr. HALLECK] because the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. McCORMACK] occupies an official party position. As majority leader of the House he is charged with the duty, and has always been very zealous in his efforts to put through every piece of legislation sponsored by the Truman administration, which he has served so ably and so well.

The first vote which will be taken will be on ordering the previous question, for the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. SABATH] will undoubtedly move the previous question. If a majority of the House votes in favor of ordering the previous question, then the only remaining question which can be voted upon will be the resolution itself.

However, if the previous question is voted down—in other words, if the majority of the House votes "no" on ordering the previous question—then it will be in order to introduce the amendment which will strike out the 21-day rule, which was adopted by the last Congress under a very peculiar parliamentary operation which shut off all debate. If the previous question is voted down, we can then fully discuss this amendment on its merits and decide what the rules should be. We can then decide whether we wish to keep the 21-day rule, which was adopted in the last session, or whether we should go back to the old rules which prevailed for 40 years.

I say there is nothing liberal about shutting off debate. There is nothing liberal in saying to the House, as the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. SABATH], who professes to be a great liberal, proposes, that the House should not be permitted to consider an amendment to his resolution. There is nothing liberal about that. He says he is a great liberal. But he wants to shut off debate and to keep this body from discussing or voting on any amendment, or deciding whether or not the 21-day rule should be continued.

Let us stop and see what has happened in the past. How did the Committee on Rules receive the power which has been discussed here? It came about as the result of one of the most gallant legislative fights ever made by any Member of the House of Representatives—by George W. Norris, of Nebraska. That happened back in 1910. George W. Norris is known in history as the great liberal. In fact, a book has been written about him as a great liberal. It was the great liberal movement he led that established the power of the Committee on Rules. Prior to that time the Speaker of the House of Representatives appointed all legislative committees, including the Committee on Rules. He was also chairman of the Committee on Rules, so that unless the Speaker himself wanted a piece of legislation to come before the House, the House did not even have a chance to vote on it one way or the other.

So it was Norris, the great liberal, the great liberal of all time, who established this rule which the present-day so-called liberals in the House here today are objecting to, who took away from one man, the Speaker of the House, the power to autocratically control the flow of legislation to the floor, and placed that power in the hands of a committee of 12 members.

Some other things were also done at that time. In order that the Committee on Rules should not become arbitrary, a provision was put in the rules so that a majority of the House could always work its will. Under this provision whenever 218 Members of the House decide they wanted to bring a bill to the floor, they could do so by signing a request or a petition at the Clerk's desk that the bill should be brought up.

So remember, my friends, if this rule is amended, if we do go back to the old rule as we should, the Rules Committee cannot block the consideration of any bill on the floor of the House that a majority of this House wants to consider.

In addition to that, there was and is a provision in the rules establishing Calendar Wednesday twice a month, on which day the roll of the legislative committees are called and, if a majority of any committee, wants to bring up any bill, it can do so when that committee is called. So there are two ways that the House can always work its will.

Now what is the proposal of these present-day so-called liberals who boast of their liberalism? They are objecting to adopting a rule that may in any way prevent them from continuing their great liberality with the people's liberties and the people's finances. Instead of permitting the House to function under a duly established Rules Committee, elected by the House itself, they want to place the entire power to decide what bills shall be called up for consideration under certain circumstances in the hands and will of one man—the Speaker of the House. Is this a liberal action? I insist not. Instead, it is the most reactionary proposal which has been before the House in many years—one that would do away with the progressive action of the truly great liberal, George W. Norris, back in 1910.

The SPEAKER. The time of the gentleman from Ohio [Mr. Brown] has expired.

Mr. SABATH. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. FULTON].

Mr. FULTON. Mr. Speaker, this is not just a question which fits any definition as to liberal and conservative. This issue is beyond party lines as it cuts across each party as well.

The question is, Do you Representatives each individually want to take the responsibility in public and be recorded for your votes on vital issues that come before this Congress? If that is the case, you will want no road block or so-called graveyard Rules Committee to kill bills before you get a chance to vote on them on the open floor of this House. Your own people want you to stand up here and be counted. Your constituents are entitled to know how you stand on the major issues.

As you know, the Rules Committee operates by secret vote. There is never a record vote that comes out in public from that committee. The legislation is blocked in secret. No one can tell who blocked any measure and there is no responsibility on any identifiable person. The members of the Rules Committee are generally from so-called safe districts that are carried regularly by large margins, so there is no danger of defeat and public opinion is successfully isolated and ignored. The will of the majority cannot be expressed and can be successfully overruled by a majority of seven Representatives. As this majority is across party lines, there is no party responsibility and the carrying out of the party platform pledges becomes meaningless.

On May 20, 1948, I asked this question: "Why was the naval civil-functions bill, H. R. 6341, with 80 items of defense, including the guided-missiles testing range at Mugu, Calif., held up for a year by the Rules Committee without action when it had been unanimously reported out by the Armed Services Committee over a year previously?" Not one of the Rules Committee answered. The chairman of the Armed Services Committee said, CONGRESSIONAL RECORD, volume 94, part 5, page 6226, that committee had made application for a rule but the action of the Rules Committee had precluded action on the floor, as follows: "The gentleman—myself—is substantially correct in the remarks he made about the date of reporting the bill and what is in it. We made application to the Committee on Rules a while ago for a rule, but the action of the Committee on Rules has precluded action upon the bill until the present time."

In addition to that, there was much pressure to revive the selective-service law in 1948. The Rules Committee held back consideration of that most important issue. The Armed Services Committee had held hearings, reported the bill by the great margin of 28 to 5, and the Rules Committee arbitrarily refused to act and would not fix a time for debate in the House for weeks. The Rules Committee then held hearings of its own on the legislative questions which were the province of the Armed Services Committee. Great public indignation and National Defense Department warnings of peril to the national safety finally broke the filibuster. Why should such a small group of men have the negative power to even shut off debate on the floor of Congress on such a critical issue?

On H. R. 5965 of the Eighty-first Congress, the 16,000-hospital-bed reinstatement program for servicemen and veterans, action was held up for months by this Rules Committee last year. The bill was reported by the House Veterans' Affairs Committee on August 24, 1949. I went up to the Rules Committee just now to check up. Do you know what is on the Rules Committee records right now as to the hospital-bed reinstatement program—16,000 additional beds for the boys from Korea and the veterans? It says on the records, "Pending—no rule granted." As far as the Rules Committee is concerned, it is still "pending and no action."

If you are interested in national defense and veterans' legislation, if you are interested in getting moderate social legislation even debated publicly in this House without being knifed in secret vote by unknown hands, if you are interested in party responsibility, so that the people who have party responsibility take that responsibility in public vote, then you do not want across the hall a secret majority in the Rules Committee that does to the death everything they, and they alone, believe in their superior wisdom, might get out of hand on the floor. I have confidence in you, in your good intentions. I hope and believe you will each take your own responsibility and vote to meet the issues in public and on record on the floor of the House.

The SPEAKER. The time of the gentleman from Pennsylvania [Mr. FULTON] has expired.

Mr. SABATH. Mr. Speaker, I yield 2 minutes to the gentleman from California [Mr. HOLIFIELD].

Mr. HOLIFIELD. Mr. Speaker, democratic processes of legislative bodies throughout the world are on trial today before the various peoples of the world. So it is today in the United States. The democratic process of allowing a majority of the Congress of the United States to consider a piece of legislation which has been considered vital by the chairman of one of the 19 standing committees and a majority of that committee, which has been considered vital for the best interests of the people, the right to bring that legislation to the floor and let each and every Member of this body rise and take his own responsibility here for that measure is on trial today. Do you know what happened in the Eighty-first Congress?

Eight measures were brought to the floor of the House and passed by great majorities because of the 21-day rule. What were they? The anti-poll-tax bill. How did the majority on the Democratic side vote on that? And how did the majority vote on the Republican side? But you could not get it to the floor from the Rules Committee because seven men said you could not consider it and pass it.

The rivers and harbors flood-control bill was brought to the floor by the Congressman from Mississippi, Mr. Whittington, was considered and passed by a great majority. The Alaska statehood bill and the Hawaii statehood bill were brought to the floor under the 21-day rule and passed by great majorities. The National Science Foundation Act, which had to do with the national defense, was passed under the 21-day rule. The National Minerals Act to subsidize vital minerals was passed on this floor because of the 21-day rule. And the Veterans' Administration hospital bill was brought to this floor by the gentleman from Mississippi [Mr. RANKIN] under the 21-day rule and passed by a majority of this House. That is part of the legislation passed because of the 21-day rule.

A bill contributing funds to United Nations agencies was also passed.

In addition to the legislation actually passed under the 21-day rule, other important legislation was reluctantly given rules by the Rules Committee. Among these were the bills to broaden and improve social security coverage and benefits, the bill to increase the national minimum wage rate from 40 cents per hour to 75 cents per hour, and the housing bill from the Banking and Currency Committee.

The 21-day rule has proven its worth. I, therefore, request that the Members preserve it by voting aye on the previous question.

The SPEAKER. The time of the gentleman from California has expired. All time has expired.

Mr. SABATH. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. COX. In order to offer an amendment to the resolution offered by the gentleman from Illinois the previous question will have to be voted down.

The SPEAKER. If the previous question is ordered there will be no amendment, of course.

The question is on ordering the previous question.

Mr. SABATH. Mr. Speaker, on that I ask for the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The question was taken; and there were—yeas 179, nays 247, not voting 2, not sworn in 5, as follows:

So the previous question was not ordered.

The result of the vote was announced as above recorded.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I offer a substitute for the resolution, which I send to the Speaker's desk.

The Clerk read as follows:

Substitute offered by Mr. Cox: Strike out all after the Resolved and insert "That the rules of the House of Representatives of the Eighty-first Congress, together with all applicable provisions of the Legislative Reorganization Act of 1946, be, and they are hereby, adopted as the rules of the House of Representatives of the Eighty-second Congress, with the following amendment included therein as a part thereof, to wit:

"Paragraph (2) (c) of rule XI is hereby amended to read as follows:

"(c) The Committee on Rules shall present to the House reports concerning rules, joint rules, and order of business, within three legislative days of the time when ordered reported by the committee. If such rule or order is not considered immediately, it shall be referred to the calendar and, if not called up by the Member making the report within seven legislative days thereafter, any member of the Rules Committee may call it up as a question of privilege and the Speaker shall recognize any member of the Rules Committee seeking recognition for that purpose. If the Committee on Rules shall make an adverse report on any resolution pending before the committee, providing for an order of business for the consideration by the House of any public bill or joint resolution, on days when it shall be in order to call up motions to discharge committees it shall be in order for any Member of the House to call up for consideration by the House any such adverse report, and it shall be in order to move the adoption by the House of said resolution adversely reported notwithstanding the adverse report of the Committee on Rules, and the Speaker shall recognize the Member seeking recognition for that purpose as a question of the highest privilege."

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Georgia [Mr. Cox] is recognized for 1 hour.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield for a question?

Mr. COX. I yield.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Will the gentleman please state whether or not the amendment as he submitted it is in the exact language as it appeared in the rules before the change was made?

Mr. COX. Exactly so, sir.

Mr. RANKIN. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. COX. I yield.

Mr. RANKIN. The gentleman means with the exception of the additions that he added? As amended it is not the exact rule that we had during the Eightieth Congress.

Mr. COX. It is the same rule we had in the Eightieth Congress.

Mr. RANKIN. With your amendments in there?

Mr. COX. Yes, sir.

Mr. BROWN of Ohio. And for years previous.

Mr. COX. And for years previous.

Mr. FULTON. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield?

Mr. COX. I yield.

Mr. FULTON. Would the gentleman advise what he might be disposed to do on time for those opposed to the rule?

Mr. COX. I have made no decision.

Mr. Speaker, when I went on the Rules Committee many years ago I was told that it was a difficult place to fill and was admonished that it would not be permissible at any time that I should consult my own personal political welfare, but that I should ever make decision on questions coming before the committee upon the basis of what I conceived to be for the best interests of the country. Mr. Speaker, I have sought to keep that charge. If I know my heart and mind, I speak the truth when I say that there has never been a time when I submerged what I conceived to be the good of my country to party regularity. And, Mr. Speaker, I should like it to be remembered that I am a member of the Rules Committee because of the interest taken by the occupant of the chair, and I wish here to bear testimony to the fact that at no time have I ever been free of deep solicitude for his peace of mind, his happiness, and his official success. At no time in all my life have I given a deeper and a more consistent affection to any man other than members of my immediate family than I have to this distinguished citizen of whom I speak.

Mr. Speaker, it will be recalled that when we assembled here 2 years ago, fresh as we were from a great victory, there was demand for the scalps of people who had stood in the way of reform measures advocated by many prominent figures in this House and the country. The Rules Committee had incurred the displeasure of many because it had, in keeping with what it believed to be the good of the country, refused to stam pede under the lash of the whip applied by strong unofficial minority groups.

I want to say, Mr. Speaker, that the Rules Committee has not been unmindful of the wishes of the leadership; they were not so during the Speakership of the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. MARTIN]; and at no time have they been so under the Speakership of the gentleman from Texas, or the leadership of my long-time and devoted friend the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. McCORMACK].

I know, Mr. Speaker, the idea prevails that the Committee on Rules has fought with the leadership, that it has been unbending to the wishes of the leadership; but I want to make a revelation, one that will be a surprise to the country: There has never been a time during my membership on the Committee on Rules that the Speaker of this House made a request that action be taken that I did not respond affirmatively to it. I should say, however, that the Speaker would never make a request that involved the sacrifice of principle. The present Speaker and his predecessor never on a single occasion sought to high-pressure the Rules Committee, and as much can be said of the majority and minority leaders.

Now, Mr. Speaker, we propose to go back to the old rule, the rule that was adopted in 1924, I believe, and liberalized in 1931 under a fight conducted by the gentleman from Georgia, the lamented Charles Crisp. I submit that what is proposed is in the interest of orderly procedure and that it is a step which this House, in my judgment, should take.

Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. HERTER].

Mr. HERTER. Mr. Speaker, I offer an amendment to the substitute.

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman from Georgia yield for that purpose?

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I yield to the gentleman to offer his amendment.

Mr. HERTER. Mr. Speaker, I offer an amendment.

The Clerk read as follows:

Amendment offered by Mr. HERTER: Add to the end of the amendment offered by Mr. Cox the following:

"Amend clause 7 of rule 24 by adding thereto the following: 'Provided further, That, pending action on the previous question, no motion for adjournment or other motion which in the opinion of the Chair is frivolous or has for its purpose delaying consideration of a motion on the previous question shall be entertained by the Chair.'"

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is recognized for 1 hour, but the Chair hopes he will explain his amendment.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, a point of order.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I submit that the amendment offered by the gentleman from Massachusetts is not an amendment to the amendment offered by the gentleman from Georgia.

The SPEAKER. Well, the gentleman has offered it as such and, therefore, it being before the House he may debate it for 1 hour if he wishes. The Chair would like for the gentleman from Massachusetts to take time to explain what he means by this amendment because the Chair does not understand it.

Mr. HERTER. Mr. Speaker, I would appreciate it if the point of order might be delayed.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman is in order.

Mr. HALLECK. Mr. Speaker, will the gentleman yield for a parliamentary inquiry?

Mr. HERTER. I yield to the gentleman from Indiana.

Mr. HALLECK. Mr. Speaker, under the parliamentary situation as now exists, the previous question having been voted down on the original resolution, could the amendment that has been offered by the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. HERTER] as an amendment to the amendment offered by the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. Cox] be offered as a separate amendment rather than as an amendment to the amendment offered by the gentleman from Georgia?

The SPEAKER. The gentleman from Massachusetts has offered it as an amendment to the substitute offered by the gentleman from Georgia.

Mr. HALLECK. Mr. Speaker, a further inquiry as to the parliamentary situation. If the gentleman from Massachusetts should withdraw the offering of his amendment as an amendment to the amendment offered by the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. Cox] might he subsequently offer it as a separate amendment?

The SPEAKER. Does the gentleman mean after disposition of the other matter?

Mr. HALLECK. Yes; after acting upon the amendment offered by the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. Cox].

The SPEAKER. A substitute cannot be amended after it is agreed to.

Mr. COLMER. Mr. Speaker, a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. COLMER. Mr. Speaker, if the Chair should sustain the point of order raised by the gentleman from Pennsylvania, then, of course, that would dispose of the question without the hour's debate, would it not?

The SPEAKER. It would, but the Chair wants to know what this is all about and trusts that the gentleman from Massachusetts, if he is going to insist on his amendment, will explain it. The Chair does not understand it.

Mr. EBERHARTER. Mr. Speaker, I am still reserving my point of order.

The SPEAKER. The Chair has not ruled on the point of order.

Mr. FULTON. Mr. Speaker, a parliamentary inquiry.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. FULTON. Mr. Speaker, at this time is a substitute amendment in order to either the amendment now pending offered by the gentleman from Georgia or to the amendment offered by the gentleman from Massachusetts [Mr. HERTER]?

The SPEAKER. A substitute would not be in order to a substitute.

Mr. HERTER. Mr. Speaker, a unanimous consent request.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman will state it.

Mr. HERTER. Mr. Speaker, in view of the fact I am advised that the Rules Committee is willing to consider this matter at an early date as a separate proposition, I ask unanimous consent to withdraw my amendment.

The SPEAKER. The gentleman can withdraw it as a matter of right.

Mr. COX. Mr. Speaker, I move the previous question.

The previous question was ordered.

The SPEAKER. The question is on the substitute offered by the gentleman from Georgia [Mr. Cox].

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, on that I demand the yeas and nays.

The yeas and nays were ordered.

The question was taken; and there were—yeas 243, nays 180, not voting 5, not sworn in 5, as follows:

INTRODUCTION AND REFERENCE OF BILLS TODAY

The SPEAKER. The Chair would like to make a statement concerning the introduction and reference of bills today.

As Members are aware, they have the privilege today of introducing bills. Heretofore on the opening day of a new Congress several thousand bills have been introduced. It will be readily apparent to all Members that it may be a physical impossibility for the Speaker to examine each bill for reference today. The Chair will do his best to refer as many bills as possible, but he will ask the indulgence of Members if he is unable to refer all of them that may be introduced. Those bills which are not referred and do not appear in the daily RECORD as of today will be included in the next day's RECORD and printed with a date as of today. The Chair feels that he should make this statement at this time so Members may be aware of the difficulties that immediately present themselves.

HOUSE OFFICE BUILDING COMMISSION

The SPEAKER. Pursuant to the provisions of title 40, sections 175 and 176, United States Code, the Chair appoints the gentleman from Illinois [Mr. SABATH] and the gentleman from New Jersey [Mr. AUCHINCLOSS] members of the House Office Building Commission to serve with himself.

OUTBREAK OF FOOT-AND-MOUTH DISEASE IN MEXICO

Mr. POAGE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend my remarks.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was no objection.

Mr. POAGE. Mr. Speaker, I want to take just a minute to report to the House the facts concerning the new outbreak of foot-and-mouth disease in Mexico which was mentioned briefly in this morning's papers. As the Members are aware, foot-and-mouth disease was first discovered in Mexico a little more than 4 years ago. Since that time the United States has spent more than $120,000,000 in an effort to fight and eradicate that disease in Mexico to prevent it spreading across the border into the cattle ranches, dairy farms, and hog farms of this country.

Thus far that effort appears to have been successful. The disease has been prevented from spreading northward into northern Mexico and the United States. A campaign of slaughter and burial of diseased and exposed animals, plus vaccination of all susceptible animals in the infected area, has stopped the disease in its tracks and this outbreak which has just been reported is the first active case of the disease that has been found in Mexico since December 26, 1949—just a little more than a year ago.

Since the first outbreak of the disease in Mexico, the Livestock Subcommittee of the Committee on Agriculture has kept a close watch on the situation. It has reported to the House from time to time and has taken the lead in initiating whatever legislative action was necessary and in establishing congressional policy toward the campaign. That subcommittee has been headed by three very able chairmen: Dr. George Gillie in the Eightieth Congress, and Representatives Eugene Worley, of Texas, and Walter K. Granger, of Utah, in the Eighty-first Congress. With the assignment of the gentleman from Utah [Mr. GRANGER] to the Ways and Means Committee, I have been designated as chairman of that subcommittee in the Eighty-second Congress.

As the new chairman of the subcommittee I met with officials of the Department of Agriculture yesterday to discuss with them this latest news from Mexico. As the result of that conference I want to assure Members of the House that this new outbreak of the disease—while it is discouraging—is not alarming and does not mean any change in the eradication campaign in Mexico.

The outbreak occurred in the State of Veracruz, Mexico. That is one of the States on the Gulf of Mexico. The municipality of Espinal, where the disease was found, is about 50 miles from the Gulf and about 100 miles south of the northern quarantine line. This means it is about 300 miles south of the border.

The disease was found in a herd of 56 cattle on a small ranch where they were being pastured for slaughter. The first sick animals were discovered by the rancher last Wednesday. By last Friday more of the animals were sick and the situation was reported to the authorities. Field and laboratory diagnosis was made immediately by veterinary technicians, and on Sunday the entire herd was appraised, slaughtered, and buried.

There are now 16 veterinary inspection teams combing the area of the outbreak for any further signs of the disease and none have been discovered as yet. We hope, of course, that they will not be able to find any. But we will not be too much discouraged if they do, and we will deal with any active disease promptly.

Never before in history has there been an effort to eradicate foot-and-mouth disease on the scale which has been undertaken jointly by the Governments of Mexico and the United States in Mexico. There were many who predicted that it could not be done—that the disease would continue forever in Mexico and we here in the United States would have to live forever in the constant dread of it spreading across the border.

No one was willing to predict that the fight would be as successful as it has been thus far. I personally consider it amazing that we have had only this one active outbreak of the disease in the past 12 months. Our hope, of course, is that this is merely a localized flare-up and that the virus of the disease is actually dying out in most of the infected area.

Only time and constant effort and vigilance can determine the outcome, but in this period when all the food production resources of this country are being called upon again for their greatest output, we must conquer this disease in Mexico and prevent the disaster that would result from its entry into this country.

I want to assure the House that the livestock subcommittee of the Committee on Agriculture will seek to continue, as it has in the past, to work closely and constantly with the officials of our Department of Agriculture and State Department with representatives of the livestock industry and with Mexican officials in the campaign against this disease. The gentleman from North Dakota [Mr. COOLEY], chairman of the Committee on Agriculture has today introduced a resolution to authorize and provide for the continuation of the work of the Livestock Subcommittee. If so authorized we will keep a constant watch on the situation and will report promptly to you any developments of consequence.

PERSONAL EXPLANATIONS

Mr. McKINNON. Mr. Speaker, I was detained and was not here to respond on the last roll call. Had I been here, I would have voted "nay."

Mr. MITCHELL. Mr. Speaker, I was unable to be present during the last roll call. I should like to have the RECORD show that had I been present I would have voted "nay."

HON. EVERETT MCKINLEY DIRKSEN

Mr. VELDE. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend my remarks.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Illinois?

There was no objection.

Mr. VELDE. Mr. Speaker, the city of Pekin and the county of Tazewell, Ill., have been signally honored today by the inauguration of EVERETT MCKINLEY DIRKSEN as junior Senator from the State of Illinois.

I heard Mr. DIRKSEN make a speech last night on a program called the Capitol Cloakroom. He said that he was not ashamed to admit that he was a re-examinationist, that he believed we should examine our foreign policy, and that we should reexamine some of the gifts that have gone to foreign lands for which we have had no expression of appreciation whatsoever, and for which no fighting men have been sent from these foreign countries.

I believe that his colleagues in the Senate as well as his old friends here in the House will go along with Senator DIRKSEN in a further policy of reexamination of this foreign policy and our spending of funds in foreign lands.

EIGHT TIPS TO FOLLOW IN 1951

Mrs. ROGERS of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to address the House for 1 minute, revise and extend my remarks and include an article from the Boston Globe.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentlewoman from Massachusetts?

There was no objection.

Mrs. ROGER of Massachusetts. Mr. Speaker, General MacArthur cabled me on December 26: "No matter against what odds, we will do the best we can." Today I believe every loyal American in the United States thinks every minute of the day about our men fighting and dying for us in Korea.

Every one of us is thanking them and praying for them. Every one is supremely grateful to them for their sacrifices. I know these men in Korea want us to keep sane and well in this terrible time in the history of America. Hence I am giving eight tips for a jittery America. They were suggested by State Health Commissioner Vlado A. Getting. The eighth tip which he gives is: "Strengthen your own personal weapon of faith." I would put that first and I would spell Faith with a capital "F."

The article is as follows:

[From the Boston (Mass.) Globe of January 2, 1951]

EIGHT TIPS TO FOLLOW IN JITTERY 1951

Laughter and relaxation, good food and exercise are more important than ever in these times of war jitters, State Health Commissioner Vlado A. Getting pointed out in a New Year message today.

The commissioner issued eight tips for remaining healthy and happy despite the current tensions. The tips:

1. Keep in top shape physically. Eat plenty of varied and nourishing food. Sleep 8 hours each night and avoid overfatigue.
2. Invest wisely in a regular check-up by your family doctor and dentist.
3. Look for laughter and relaxation. Take time out now and then for a good joke, the movies, theater, your favorite sport, or radio humorist.
4. Keep busy. Find more things to do. Develop new interests and hobbies.
5. If your physical condition permits, try brisk exercise outdoors, if possible, every day. Play golf, tennis, baseball, or other active sports. Leave your worrying habits behind.
6. Don't let the war jitters get you down. Curb your imagination. Find out how to protect yourself and your family against enemy attack. Join civil-defense activities. Decide what you can best contribute to your community and do it.
7. Do things promptly. Don't shirk responsibility. Putting off decisions, problems, and jobs only makes them more difficult.
8. Strengthen your own personal weapon of faith.

FLAGG SPRINGS CITIZEN OF FANNIN COUNTY, TEX., PAYS WONDERFUL TRIBUTE TO SPEAKER SAM RAYBURN

Mr. PATMAN. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to extend my remarks and include a letter and also a poem in tribute to the Speaker of the House.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Texas?

There was objection.

Mr. PATMAN. Mr. Speaker, I have just received from H. E. Perry, of Honey Grove, Tex., route 1, a letter, the excerpts from which are as follows:

DEAR CONGRESSMAN PATMAN: I take this opportunity to write you as I am a 49-year-old tenant farmer in Fannin County, Tex., living in the Flagg Springs community where my beloved friend, the Honorable SAM RAYBURN, House Speaker, and his most gracious father and mother lived for 27 years before he moved to Bonham where he now resides. This little quiet farm community has been given national recognition by reason of our beloved Speaker living here, and as a young man got his first schooling at Flagg Springs.

I have composed and written some poems of tribute to this great statesman. I gave him a copy through my local Honey Grove Signal newspaper and I don't have a typewriter or a printed copy, so I will write it in longhand by pencil for you. Also you are such a close friend to the Speaker, I am sure you, along with other friends, will honor Mr. RAYBURN on January 6, 1951, at his birthday dinner. I wish you would read this on this occasion and also if possible put it in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD. I surely will thank you so kindly as an humble farm tenant with only a ninth-grade education in my feeble but sincere effort tried to pay my heart's honest tribute to this great American. Oh, for his eloquence to pay him his just desert. * * *

Sincerely yours,

H. E. PERRY.

HONEY GROVE, TEX.

A TRIBUTE

We love our dear SAM RAYBURN,
Speaker of the Nation's House.
He is a refined, cultured gentleman,
He is a son of the native South.

He is a Texan by choice and adoption,
But Tennessee is the State of his birth.
As a fighter for freedom and justice,
There is no equal of him on earth.

In 1912 he was elected to Congress
On March 4, 1913, he took his seat
He has made such a faithful servant
In no campaign was he ever beat.

His tribute to womanhood,
Was a life of devotion to his mother,
His tribute to mankind
Was a living tribute faithful as a brother.

It was in the Flagg Springs community
As a youth he grew brave and strong,
His love for truth and justice
Made a man who will do no wrong.

In spite of fame and honor
He never lost the common touch.
His devotion to the Democratic ideals
Inspires us all so much.

We Americans live with confidence
When his hand guides the ship of state,
He is so sincere and consistent,
His true heart never harbors hate.

Mr. RAYBURN is a great fighter
For freedom, for peace and right,
We pray as we support him
For the world he wins this fight.

His noble father and sainted mother
Gave him an untarnished name.
He has written it in imperishable letters
In his country's Hall of Fame.

—H. E. Perry.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

THURSDAY, JANUARY 4, 1951

The House met at 12 o'clock noon.

The Chaplain, Rev. Bernard Braskamp, D. D., offered the following prayer.

O Thou who art the supreme intelligence and the only source of all wisdom and strength for life's many strange and difficult adventures, make us daily more conscious of Thy greatness and goodness. We rejoice that with this assurance we need not be afraid to enter upon any new day, however freighted it may be with heavy burdens.

Grant that we may have a clear perception and understanding of that which is right and necessary and helpful and worth while.

May we be wise and strong and courageous enough to do faithfully and well whatever any occasion or circumstance or duty may demand.

Inspire and sustain us with the confident conviction that righteousness and truth shall prevail and that Thy divine will shall be done on earth as it is in heaven.

Hear us in Christ's name. Amen.

The Journal of the proceedings of yesterday was read and approved.

MAJORITY WHIP

Mr. McCORMACK. Mr. Speaker, I desire to announce to the House that I have reappointed as the majority whip the distinguished gentleman from Tennessee, Mr. PRIEST.

THE LATE HONORABLE CLEVELAND DEAR

Mr. ALLEN of Louisiana. Mr. Speaker, I ask unanimous consent to address the House for 1 minute and to revise and extend my remarks.

The SPEAKER. Is there objection to the request of the gentleman from Louisiana?

There was no objection.

Mr. ALLEN of Louisiana. Mr. Speaker, it becomes my painful duty to announce to the House the death of my predecessor in this body, the Honorable Cleveland Dear, of Alexandria, La., who passed away at his home in Alexandria, La., on December 30.

Mr. Dear served as a Member of this body in the Seventy-third and Seventy-fourth Congresses and rendered great service to the Nation. He did not run for reelection but returned home and was elected to the local bench where he served with honor and distinction as the judge of the ninth judicial district, Rapides Parish, La.

I have known Cleveland Dear for nearly 40 years. He and I were schoolmates at the Louisiana State University. He was a good student and when he got out of school, he engaged in the active practice of law. For some years he was district attorney of the ninth judicial district of Louisiana and served ably in that capacity. He has been an able jurist for a good many years.

He leaves a wife and two children. I know his fine wife quite well. She is a wonderful woman. I know that Mr. Dear's family will greatly miss him. I know that he will be missed by a great host of friends and I know also that the bench and bar of his judicial district and the entire State will miss him. To his family and friends I extend my deepest sympathy and pray that God will sustain them in this hour of their great loss.

Mr. BROOKS. Mr. Speaker, it is with a great sense of sorrow that I weigh the loss to Louisiana and to the Nation of one of its most distinguished sons, former Representative Cleveland Dear of Alexandria, La.

Cleveland Dear was an unselfish and devoted servant of his fellow man in every facet of his career. When the Kaiser's armies marched against democracy, Cleveland Dear left his law practice and served as a courageous young officer of the United States Field Artillery. For 13 years after World War I, he served ably and conscientiously as district attorney of the ninth judicial district of Louisiana.

In the lean years of the 1930's—when the people of our great Nation were cry-
